

SUN. NOV. 29, 1900

THE BOERS WILL NOT STOP WHIPPING.

The Boers are again on the war path in force, which may explain the reason caused by the presence of General Kitchener which has not been at all times if reports are to be believed with in the ranks of civilized war, burning and destroying the homes and property of non-combatants has long since been condemned and placed with the methods of barbarous war and its times, when men made war to pillage and rob.

If it is correctly stated Kitchener has been guilty of inhumanity as war is now conducted to women and children, which is above all else with which he has been charged the most inhuman feature presented in the catalogue of his crimes. It seems from reports made that the Commanding General has concluded that waste and extermination applied to the Boers would have a like effect upon them as it had upon a half civilized people in the Sudan, where he was engaged in destroying the human family before he was transferred to the Transvaal.

He was known in England as a ruthless soldier before he landed in South Africa, and for that reason was selected to subdue the Boers and bring them to the state of submission to British authority. It is very strange that the thirty years war sustained by the Dutch against Spain when it was at the zenith of its glory and power did not enter into the calculations of the government of Great Britain when it was preparing to meet the Boers at the mouth of a cannon or at the point of a bayonet.

The ancestors of these people were tried all along the centuries and continued to be a warlike people to the end of multiplied strife of the most inhuman and cruel nature and at the close of barbarous war in its more cruel form they sustained under William of Orange a devastating war against Philip of Spain for thirty years till they conquered their liberty by defending their rights.

The same blood flows in the veins of the African Boer that flowed in the veins of the Dutch when war to them was a past time for the exercise as they understood of many qualities.

The fire of former times has not been quenched in the veins of the African Dutch, nor has it undergone in the wilds of Africa any change to make it less active.

A free and active life has not tended to subdue the war spirit, or to make Transvaalmen or Cape Colored Dutchmen more feminine than their ancestors.

The war spirit that was supposed to be subdued in these people when Pretoria was taken seems not to have been then awakened. Late manifestations point at least to a new awakening of the war spirit. There must be some meaning in the late activity of the South African people or General Kitchener would not be calling upon the home government for thirty thousand additional men and horses.

Should the uprising in Cape Colony become general there will be in the end a South African Republic that will cover more territory than the Transvaal and Orange Free State. It is represented that Lord Salisbury is not so hopeful about South African affairs as he has been. It is also reported that the British public are disengaged over recent events in Cape Colony, which may have a tendency to bring about a more reasonable state of things respecting the future of the people in the Transvaal and Free State Republic.

An unconditional surrender has passed from the rules of human duty among civilized people and it should be sent to the pages of history where it belongs, among barbarisms. The ethics of the age do not include such a surrender when independent peoples are at war; the times of the conqueror should be among the times we learn about when making comparisons between barbarisms of the past and enlightened civilization of the present. The right of might is still enough when there is no alternative except its exercise, but to impose the humiliation of an unconditional surrender upon enlightened men who have the spirit of independence within them, is equivalent to a demand for their liberty or their life.

An unconditional surrender should apply to criminals only who prey upon society. As there is no other mode consistent with order and security to life or property except unconditional surrender by those who by their acts have it as a measure outlawed themselves. When Great Britain demands from the Boers an unconditional surrender, it has said to them in effect, you are criminals, within the ethics of a nation whose people claim to possess the highest order of enlightenment, while the demand is a revival of the spirit of the Northwest of the middle ages, which has manifested itself in the Briton to the present.

Wonderful Pine Tree.

A pine tree in Harry Clowes' window bears both citrus and deciduous fruits. Beneath and behind it are bauks all sorts of game and domestic masts. There will be a big eat at the Washoe today. Don't overlook the choice drinkables that Nels Block will furnish at the Washoe bar.

TEACHERS IN SESSION

Discuss Proposed Legislation and Plan for a Meeting.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Western Nevada Teachers' Association was held yesterday afternoon and evening in the high school building in this city. Chairman J. E. Bray presided and Miss Joy officiated as secretary.

It was decided to hold a meeting of the association in Wadsworth during the first week in April for the purpose of pedagogic instruction by interchange of ideas. The association expects to have one or two instructors from Stanford or Berkeley meet with them.

Yesterday's deliberations were partly directed toward framing a bill to be introduced in the legislature providing support for school libraries in the various districts in the State.

The committee also considered the proposition of attempting to secure legislation giving teachers standing in the courts by limiting the present arbitrary powers of school trustees.

Both bills will be introduced, backed by the strength of the teachers' association throughout the State.

Elks Entertain the Minstrels.

Last evening the Reno Lodge of Elks entertained in royal style the members of Haverly's Minstrel troupe, many of whom wore the insignia of that order. It was one of the jolliest and most unconventional gatherings that ever took place in this city. Mirth and music, wit and oratory were the moving spirits of the occasion.

The locals were just as greatly entertained by the visitors as though the position of host and guest were interchanged throughout the evening.

It was nearly midnight before the ceremonies began, said ceremonies being largely performed around the festal board.

Western Neighbor Begins to Boom.

C. P. Gross is down from Verdi for Christmas. He says that work is proceeding rapidly in the construction of the Verdi Lumber company's broad gauge railroad. About one mile of road is now ready for the steel. A substantial bridge is now being thrown across the Truckee and many hundred feet of trestle is being built.

The company has prepared a roomy boarding house for the men and looks after their comfort and convenience.

Verdi is beginning to experience a boom, which will not reach its height until next summer when the big mill is in operation. The good people of Verdi have excellent reason for believing that they live in what will soon be the second town in the county in point of population.

LES MAJESTE
PROCEEDINGS

Judicial Inquiry that Was not as Solemn as it Might Have Been.

There are delicate shades and blendings in the English language. The person most guarded in his speech quite frequently puts his foot in his mouth and the most careful scribe gets his metaphors tangled and his positives negated.

The Gazette, in its report of the Westterfield trial, made a bad blunder by getting near enough the truth to miss it.
This miss was as good as the proverbial eight furlongs.

Judge Curler, who is alleged to have been misquoted, waxed wrath and, like William, the Hohenzollern, summoned Allen C. Bragg into court and read him a lecture on les majeste. Here is the document that came near "pi"-ing all the type in the office of the afternoon sheet, a document of record:

RENO, Nevada, Dec. 22, 1900.
In the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe.

Mr. Allen C. Bragg:—It is the order of this Court that you be, and hereby are, notified and requested to appear in this Court at 1:30 p.m. this day, to answer to an article appearing in the Reno Evening Gazette, of the date of the 18th or 19th and the 21st days of December, 1900.

B. F. CURLER,
Judge.

W. A. FOGG, Clerk.
Bragg dragged "Skinny" MaLotie, the guilty scribe, out of a cubby hole in which he was attempting to hide his diminished head.

The two culprits, seeing stone walls and iron bars in their heated imaginations, beat their steps in the direction of the courthouse, "Where Justice outraged, etc."

Judge Curler told the newspaper men in solemn tones and carefully escaped verbiage, that the people must have confidence in the integrity and judgment of the judiciary, or lawlessness would be next at the bat with the three furies on bases.

Soberly speaking, for the JOURNAL does not want to be also yanked up on the carpet for contempt of court, judicial proceedings should be reported in mighty careful fashion. It is a serious thing to put untruthful and idiotic words into the mouth of a judge and scatter mischief abroad in the land.

Mr. Bragg squared himself by telling His Honor that his (Bragg's) reporter was a chump, his prosector was blind from his birth and his printers were a lot of measly blacksmiths.

The Gazette editor swore by the gods that dwell upon Mount Rose and the little fishes that swim in the Truckee that he hoped to choke if it ever happened again.

The wrath of a smile for a moment illuminated the features of the "most noble judge" as that "most excellent young man," Lee MaLotie, told with streaming eyes and faltering accents the sad story of his rise, decline and fall as an honorable, truthful reporter.

At this juncture, the janitor, fearful that the carpet would be damaged, handed Skinny a cuspidor as a receptacle for his copious tears.

The humor of the act brought down the house and the court with it. The proceedings terminated without ceremony and the mills of justice began to grind out a grist of dry, unprofitable probate matters.

The Elite is headquarters for miners and prospectors. This is the place to swap yarns about bonanza strikes as well as indulge in a refreshing and sociable drink.

A SHAKE-UP ON THEN-C-O.

Lots of New Faces in the Difer-ent Departments on the Road.

The personnel of the N.C.O. force of employees is in a state of transition.
Since the present management took the helm there have been discharges and resignations galore. The shakeup runs from heads of departments in the main office down to section men out on the bleak Madeline plains.

Some of the employees who have parted or have been parted from their jobs are men of families, who have resided in Reno for many years. One by one they are leaving the town to seek employment elsewhere.

This is causing severe criticism, which, in the judgment of the JOURNAL, should be held in suspension until all the facts in the case are understood.

The importation of eastern men to fill their places is another cause for complaint on the part of interested persons. It is alleged that a general reduction of wages has taken place and the duties of the employee have become more arduous. There is also a report that the traffic rate on certain commodities has been forced up.

The JOURNAL believes it is well at this time to state in print the rumors that are flying about and being generally discussed. It will not at this time attempt a defense of the present management, otherwise than by saying that prior to Mr. Dunaway's installation the Nevada-California-Oregon railway was being grossly mismanaged by an octogenarian simpleton who knew no more about economics than he did of common, ordinary politeness. Mr. Dunaway is subserveing everything to putting his road upon a paying basis, to do which, in these modern times, philanthropy must play second fiddle to cold, hard business sense.

Notwithstanding having been bilked twice, a large number of Renoites attended the negro minstrel show last evening. It is said to have been a good performance.

Wants to Serve His State.
G. C. Lary, thespian, wise one and politioan, is a candidate for assistant secretaryship of the Senate. George Clayton is a rustler from Rustle-town and if he fails in his ambition the JOURNAL will never attempt another guess.

Lary was one of the main guys in Washoe county politics during the late lamented campaign. He's got a record and will beat it by a furlong next campaign.

For the Xmas Dinner.

Frank Campbell will have a fine lot cannot help but admire the fine finish and clean, white color we lay upon their linen industry do your work for awhile and see if the results won't be more satisfactory.

Many Things
Are Meant

By many dealers who claim to handle groceries. When they advertise GOOD GROCERIES no mention is made of PRICE. When price is mentioned QUALITY IS OVER-LOOKED. Again, sometimes they dwell on the virtues of a LARGE STOCK. In this case no claim is made to carrying FRESH GOODS.

We Preach the Three Main Virtues of Groceries—

Quality

Quantity

Price

They are mentioned in their regular order and the happy combination is causing hosts of pleased patrons at our store.
